"Fire is benevolent and malevolent, beautiful and terrible in turns. It warms with its geniality and scorches with its power."

> And if you want to dodge the results of that "scorching" you'd better C. Brewer & Co. about Fire Insurance---and see them soon, too!

Castle & Cooke, Ltd. Agents

Corner Fort and Merchant Sta

Fright-just plain, ordinary frightf started in one man in the habit of saving. He was frightened with the iden that, at some feture time, he might have to beg his daily bread.

After he'd been saving for some time—and he seemed to live just as well while he was saving! he found that he couldn't stop saving.

He's an old, old man now -and he hasn't had to beg for anything.
